

IT'S MIDNIGHT. DO YOU KNOW WHERE YOUR SKID STEER IS TONIGHT?

Equipment-tracking software can boost contractors' productivity and cut regular maintenance costs

By Debra Wood

CONSTRUCTION FIRMS ARE IMPROVING PRODUCTIVITY BY USING EQUIPMENT- AND FLEET-MANAGEMENT SYSTEMS TO CLOSELY TRACK MACHINES AND OTHER RESOURCES.

"It comes down to best utilizing the technology to help you make better decisions and manage your equipment in terms of maintenance and utilization," says Tary L. Carlson, senior project manager for the inici group Inc., Portland, Ore., Oregon-Columbia Chapter AGC, and chairman of AGC's Electronic Information Systems Committee.